Driver's Education teacher Edwin H. Wiest retired this year after teaching in the Newton School system for 37 years. As senior teacher, he taught 500-600 students during 10 blocks a week. In his career, he has taught some 25 to 30 thousand students the ins and outs of Driver's Ed. He originated the programs at both Newton North and Newton South High Schools and has been co-ordinator of driver's education in the Newton Public schools since 1952. He was also chairman of the Traffic Commission for 15 years. There is no accounting how many accidents, how many broken legs, or how many deaths he has prevented because of his teachings. The 1984 Newtonian staff honors him for his years of service and devotion.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

PRINCIPAL OF NEWTON NORTH HIGH SCHOOL

Marya Levenson served her second as principal at Newton North. She headed the school with her gentle omnipresence, in the halls, in the lunch room, on the public address system, at school events.

Mrs. Levenson is especially proud of Newton North's well-roundedness—its fullness in variety of students and in its balance of classes and extra-curricular activities.

Mrs. Levenson, who has three children, is working towards her doctorate and hopes to graduate to Doctor Levenson with the class of 1984.

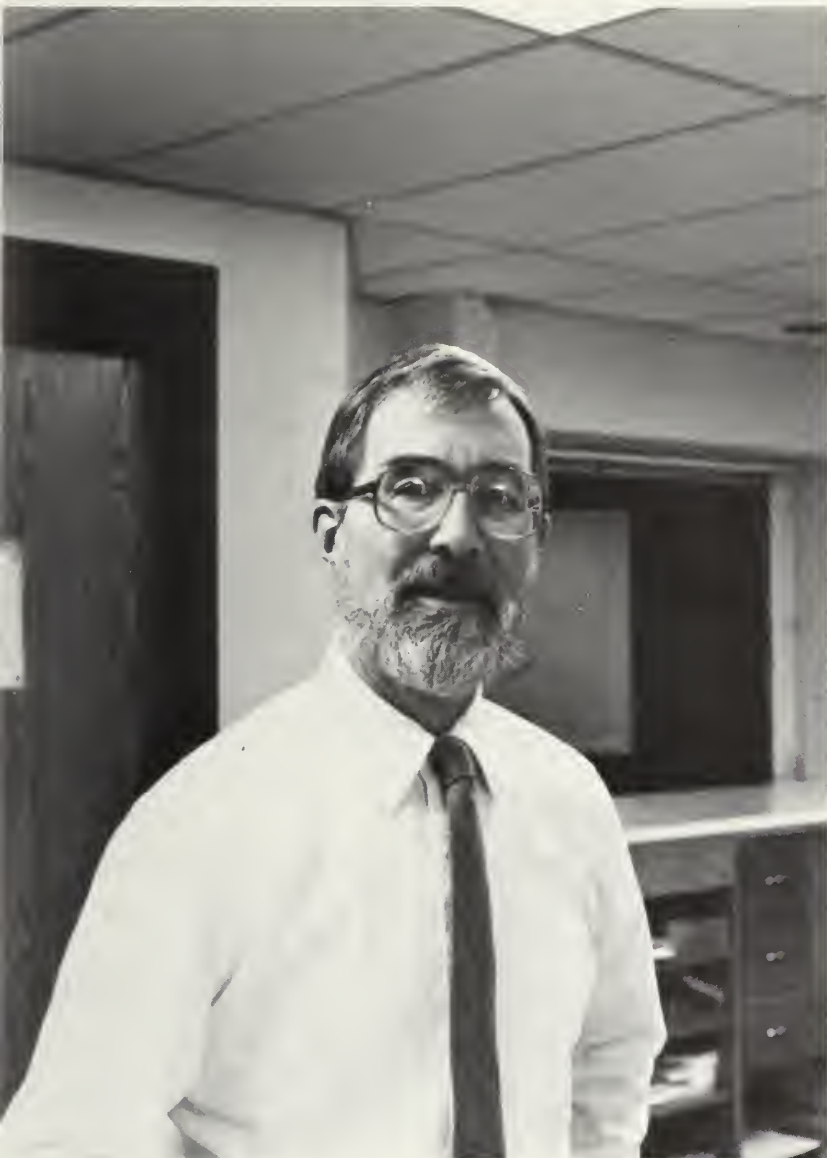

SUPERINTENDENT OF NEWTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

John Strand, like Mrs. Levenson, saw his second year in the Newton public school system. He came to Newton to replace departing superintendent, Aaron Fink, having previously served as superintendent of schools in Pelham, New York.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE PRINCIPAL

Atwood P. Dunham has served as administrative assistant to the principal for fourteen years. Mr. Dunham, like Mrs. Levenson, is a frequent sight around school, patrolling the halls and talking to students. Mr. Dunham's duties range from making morning announcements to correcting schedules and report cards to Theatre Ink.

SUPERVISOR OF THE NEWTON TECHNICAL-VOCATIONAL PROGRAM

Dan Malia, a former Riley housemaster, is in charge of the city of Newton's Technical-Vocational program, including that of Newton North High School. His job requires him to work closely with the Business, Home Economics and Work Study departments of the Newton Public Schools in order to provide the best experiences and education possible.

THE HOUSES

The brilliant yellow of Barry House shines at the intersection of Elm Street and Main. The house is named after Leo J. Barry, an administrative assistant, assistant principal and principal of Newton High School.

Beals, the bright, light green house, is the second splash of color from the Elm Street foot of Main Street. When John N. Beals was principal of the first high school in Newton, he worked with one administrative assistant, two teachers and just 75 students, compared to more than 300 teachers and 2500 students today.

Down the hall and color spectrum from Beals stands Adams house in emerald green. Enoch Adams was principal at Newton for twenty-five years, from 1897-1921.

Palmer is "the best house with the best students, the best teachers and the best housemaster" in the humble opinion of housemaster Richard Adams. The house with the deep blue walls and lockers is named after Irving O. Palmer, the first principal of the technical high school and then of the newly combined high school.

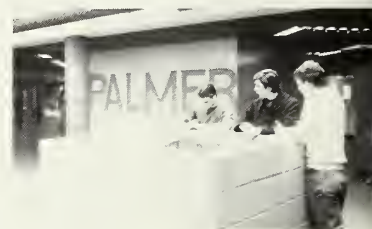

The plum walls of Riley, the last house before the administrative deserted Bacon House, is spread out just in front of the library steps. Cora Riley was North's first director of guidance, and the institutor of financial aid in Newton.

BARRY

Gail Stein, Barry housemaster, was also responsible for the College Board examinations.

PALMER

BEALS

ADAMS

THE FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE DANCE

The 1984 Newtonian staff first began dreaming of a dance in June, 1983. After long deliberation, it was decided that a freshman-sophomore dance was the best idea, to be held as a sort of introduction to the school.

The idea was brought before Mrs. Levenson, who approved it. Matt Lahey and "Rocco" MacDougall agreed to D.J., a date was set, and police and custodians were hired, as the yearbook staff began to enthusiastically make posters announcing the coming social event.

Ticket sales were not promising at first. Ticket sales were not promising at second. Ticket sales were not promising at the door. Now, long after the dance, ticket sales are still not promising. Nevertheless, freshmen and sophomores and a few confused juniors and seniors came on October 7th. Enough wandered in to crowd the floor of the cafeteria through "Jailhouse Rock", Def Leopard's "Foolin'", and Quiet Riot's "Cum on Feel the Noiz", which was played three times and declared the official song of the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Levenson came on and felt the noise, and even danced. Other teachers were seen dancing, not dancing, and sort of dancing. Fast music was much more popular than the slower romantic music, and louder was far more popular than softer.

The outstanding feature of the dance was the number of people actually dancing: nearly everyone was on the floor for all of the numbers. After a few songs, even the yearbook editors who attended were able to loosen up and start dancing.

The dance, while not a financial success, was at least a social success, and that, to the yearbook staff, was the whole idea.

The Newtonian Staff lived its life from minute to minute, deadline to deadline. They peddled their candy bars, photographs and ad spaces, interviewed their coaches and club presidents, cropped their pictures, typed their copy and snapped their crowd shots. They felt alternately optimistic and pessimistic, victorious and defeated, ecstatic and depressed and always completely exhausted.

The Newtonian staff and their live-in entertainment Aprodite the mouse lived and worked in their avantgarde niche in Beals Commons. They spent their hours assembling layouts, identifying photos and trying to find a way into the candy cabinet. Mostly, they survived and all but a few lived to see this yearbook printed.

THOUGHTPRINTS

In this year, as in past years, Thoughtprints produced two issues — a spring magazine, and the traditional fall calendar (which, as always, made a great Christmas gift).

Thoughtprints was an outlet and forum for creative students who might not otherwise be published. The art and literary staffs met once a week to select the pick-of-the-litter of photographs and drawings, stories and poems that were submitted. The production staff typed, laid out, and pasted up the selected works. And when the finished issue was in hand, the publicity staff advertised and sold it.

The Thoughtprints homeroom served as a lounge in the comfortable, if slightly worn, surroundings — an alternative to the commons or the patrolled library.

Every other Friday, The Newtonite is circulated through the school and throughout Newton. Up and down Main Street, in doorways and on benches, students intently read the award-winning paper.

The 1983 Newtonite staff worked steadily throughout the year reporting, writing, photographing and selling ads in order to go to press alternate Wednesday night. This year, the Newtonite won three prestigious awards: a medalist rating from the Columbia Press Association, first place Class One in editing and publishing from the New England Scholastic Press Association, and first place from the American Scholastic Press Association.

The editorship of The Newtonite is run on a January to January calendar. 1983's editor-in-chief, Jennifer Slack, oversaw the thirteen editors and their staffs who, in addition to assembling material for the paper, did all the typesetting and paste-up.

Slack would like to thank all her staff and especially their advisor, Helen Smith, whose insight and command is why The Newtonite is where it is today.

Good luck to new editor-in-chief, Caleb Baker and the 1984 Newtonite staff.

The Newtonite, founded in 1922, is the newspaper of Newton North High School, 360 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, Mass. 02160. It is published 16 times during the school year at $2.00 per yearly subscription.

Newtonite editorials are the views of the writers. Unsigned editorials represent the official position of the Newtonite. Readers are invited to submit guest editorials, articles and letters to the editor.

To be run in the next edition, letters must be in the Newtonite box in Barry House by the Friday after the paper is circulated. We reserve the right to edit all letters, which must have the writers' name, class and homeroom printed on them.

To place an ad in the Newtonite, please call 552-7737.
The Newtonite staff does all the typesetting, paste up and camera work for each edition.

STUDENT-FACULTY- ADMINISTRATION BOARD

The S.F.A. determines school rules and discusses school related issues. It is composed of student and faculty representatives who are elected to their positions. This year they decided to eliminate open campus for sophomores and freshmen, regulated candy sales and voted not to have pluses and minuses on report cards.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

The Senior Class Officers, President Brion Rock, Vice President Jill Guzzi, Secretary Roger Nusbaum, and Treasurer Sean Feeney, directed the Senior Class Committee throughout the year in raising money and planning activities. They organized the prom and class trips, co-sponsored the junior-senior dance and sold hand-made jewelry at Main Street Expo. The money they raised was in behalf of the entire senior class of 1984.

SENIOR CLASS COMMITTEE

INTERHOUSE COUNCIL

Interhouse Council is the United Nations of Newton North. Its membership is comprised of students of every group in the school. The members make it possible to reach the council's set goals; communication, co-operation, and coordination. Proof of their success is Spring Fair, Harvest Fair and "I Love Main Street."

ADAMS HOUSE COUNCIL

Adams House Council spent its year raising money for its scholarship fund. Throughout the year, they ran Donut Hole and sold candy (most notably M&M's) and sold lollipops at Christmas and fried dough at fairs. They also planned a spring picnic. Aside from raising money, Adams House Council also provided other services for the school: the newly-reborn Orange Shield was started in Adams; many Council members volunteered to help clean Main Street after the custodians' one-day, see-what-it's-like hiatus.

BARRY HOUSE COUNCIL

Barry House Council is forward-moving. The largest of the house councils, Barry raised needed scholarship money through their fun, exciting activities. They produce Rocco's Rock 'n Roll Revue annually, their largest and most exciting activity. The entire school as well as the community is swept up in the excitement of Rocco. Rocco T-shirts and sweatshirts appeared everywhere this year, evidence of Barry Council in action. All the profit from Rocco's three sold out performances went to Barry Council's scholarship fund. Barry Council also sponsored successful council dinners, and car washes.

BEALS HOUSE COUNCIL

The Beals House Council met Tuesdays and Thursdays to plan for their various activities. They sold carnations for Valentine's Day, Witch-O-Grams for Hallowe'en and cotton candy for Expo Main Street. They also sponsored Draft Week—a program for information and education. The 300 members of the council held pot-luck suppers and planned a trip for the Spring. The money they raised went towards scholarships and a donation to Globe Santa.

"The house council," said co-president Marilyn Levenson, "allows students to meet and have fun with other students from different classes but in the same house."

RILEY HOUSE COUNCIL

Riley Council planted flowers, held a fair and supported a charity during the 1983-1984 school year. The flowers were placed in the earth around the Riley tree—which was replaced by the council in a recent year. The fair was Mainstreet Expo-based on the theme "Peace and Love: the 60's revisited," which was spread from end to end of Main Street, and allowed over 25 clubs to sell food and crafts. The charity supported by Riley Council was Oxfam. They sponsored Qxfam Fast Day and Hunger Awareness Week, when they collected money from students and contributed a great deal to their own treasury. The council worked towards the bettering of life at North and making teachers and students aware of their presence and goal!

AFRO-AMERICAN CLUB

Originally the Black Student Union, the Afro-American Club enables black students to get together and talk about issues that concerned themselves and the school. February was Black History Month, and the club organized school activities, including a break dancing demonstration. They also sold hot pizza for Main Street Expo.

First row; Sean Larts, Nieva Copley, Yarsemander McMillian, Leah Thomas, Michelle Beach, Carla Rushin. Second row; Lisa Roach, Brion Rock, Angela Davis, Tony Reese, Troy Jones, Lisa Rollins, Rita Reeves, Keith Roach, Tracy Williams, Monique Rhones, Aida Roberts, Fred Freelow (advisor). Missing: Mark Graham.

BICYCLE CLUB

Remember dying in the paceline behind Boswell's wheel. Ned sprinted for 5 miles before he collapsed. While we trained, Kim saved the whales. Five first place wins, 7 last place, one 5th, one 15th. Middle of the season someone's legs gave out. Then came the snow.

Jeremy Shapiro, Doug Sabin, Steve Rittenberg, Craig Michelson.

The Newton North High School Computer Lab Aides, although not an official club, had "meeting" almost every afternoon as they alternately taught and terrorized the computer students that frequented the computer lab. Knowledgeable in both the PDP -11 system and the Rainbow micro-computers, seniors Craig Michelson (Software Manager) and Steve Rittenberg (Rainbow Co-ordinator), juniors Jeremy Shapiro (Hardware Manager) and Doug Sabin (Graphics Co-ordinator) programmed and assembled, debugged and advised for the paltry standard work-study wages while enjoying the opportunity to harass less fortunate classmates who didn't get paid at all.

Faced with frequent crises of various sorts-the broken pencil sharpener, the LP in an infinite loop, "DB," and Lex-11 (1983 version), the lab aides endured through all such tragedies and continued on their never-ending crusade against syntax errors.

DINER'S CLUB

The Diner's Club indulged in all manner of delightfully hedonistic feasts and genially bacchanalian revelry this year. They defied authorities, description, and the bounds of good taste in their search to satisfy their various appetites.

The diners wallowed in the decadence of the Cafeteria's understated elegance, where they embellished the tables with candelabras, coq au vin and full evening wear.

The members plan to live in a society where they can be wealthy, well-fed, and dreadfully decadent.

EDCO EAGLES

The Edco Eagles, founded two years ago, played a regular schedule of basketball games against other deaf teams from Massachusetts high schools. The team practiced twice a week in preparation for their twelve-game schedule. Although still in search of a permanent home, most of their home games were played at the Hawthorne Gym. With many members graduating, the seniors hope that the team will be able to continue next year. Senior co-captains Chris Jones and Sean Gill, who were among the founders, said that they wanted mostly to "prove that deaf athletes are as good as everybody else."

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club, led by co-presidents Liz Melhado and Julia Smith, saw French movies and ate in French restaurants for a taste of the French culture. They raised money through bake sales, the Doughnut Hole and by selling penny candy at Expo. At the time the yearbook went to press, they were planning a trip to Quebec or Montreal.

GERMAN CLUB

This year's "Deutsche-Verin" supervised by Richard Clark is made up of German students and those interested in German heritage and culture. For Beethoven's birthday, the German Club presented a concert of German music and a one act play in German, written by its members.

HACKEY SACK CLUB

The new sport of Hackey-Sack was introduced to Newton North under the auspices of the Hackey-Sack Club. Co-president Larry Alford had been playing the sport for about two years, although it became popular only this year. Alford and co-president Ed Rubin founded the club to spur on the popularity of the sport. The group now consists of ten official members, but as apparent in the accompanying picture, many freeloaders joined the club for that one particular meeting. The club has been selling hackey-sacks to any willing buyer. With the earnings, they hope to buy polo shirts with the club logo printed on them. The club boasts the most faithful and talented players from the Newton North student body. The senior members hope that the younger members of the club will keep up the wonderful group that is the Hackey-Sack club of Newton North.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The members of the International Club learned about and enjoyed cultures of different countries. The club, was approximately half foreign students and half native Newtonites. They shared international delicacies at restaurants and parties at Christmas and Thanksgiving. The club helped foreign students learn English and adjust to Newton North. They organized an International Day with food and performers.

IRISH STUDENT UNION

The Irish Student Union exemplifies fine heritage of Gaelic comradere. Activities this year included the Great Potato Bake, the third annual Leprechaun hunt, and the Guinness Road Race. Our club sold four-leaf clovers on St. Patrick's Day, financing this summer's trip to Dublin.

ITALIAN CLUB

The Italian Club is traditionally one of the most active clubs at Newton North. This year the members sold posters, stationery, candy, and key chains to finance their annual Christmas party. Proceeds also helped Italian students to travel to Florence on the exchange program.

JUGGLING CLUB

The new Juggling Club was founded at the beginning of the year by co-presidents Mark J. Lane and David Kessler. Although not the first juggling club to be part of Newton North's extra-curricular program, it the first to stress involvement in the act of juggling as a pre-requisite. There were some beginners in the club but they were expected to participate in juggling drills. The nine member club, advised by English teacher Thomas Schaefer is a true lover of juggling. The bi-weekly meeting provided ample time to hone juggling skills. In the Little Theater, the range of beginners to juggling wizards shared new routines as well as perfecting old ones. The club existed primarily for improving juggling and generating fun and for that reason did not raise funds, but opted to spend time to become the best jugglers possible.

LOCAL HISTORY CLUB

Local History was a registered class taught by social studies teacher Henry Bolter, but class took place entirely outside of school. Each Thursday night, the students met at a member's house and became involved in fiery debates over historical and social issues concerning Newton and Boston. Their arguments were fed by Fiddle Faddle, Doritos and Screaming Yellow Zonkers. The class went on a number of field trips in both Boston and Newton, including the Gibson House in Boston and the Jackson Homestead and Newton Free Library Newton Room in Newton. The students, while enthusiastically participating in the activities, enjoyed the class for its energy and entertainment.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION OF THE DEAF

The Newton North chapter of the Junior Massachusetts Association of the Deaf served as a helping hand for deaf students, aiding them in choosing sports and activities. They sold candy to fund their trip to the Massachusetts Association of the Deaf banquet in Florida. The club stressed their school and scholarship support of deaf students at Newton North.

The 1983-1984 Newton North Math Team competed in five meets in the Eastern Division of the 34-school Greater Boston Mathematics League. Members competed intramurally in run-offs to earn positions on the varsity squad. Led by returning senior president Ton-Yun Fang and secretary Caitlin O'Connor, the team did well in meets against teams with regular practices or classes. Coaches Dr Kathleen Hollowell and Mrs Ina Heafitz were glad to support the well-balanced team with strengths in all categories. Surprisingly, the most consistent mathlete was a freshman: Daniel Schmidt, who was consistently among the high scorers at each meet.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

The Model United Nations, led by president Jenna Ware and Vice President April Cowin, researched governments and economics of countries for discussion and meets. They attended the New York High School Model United Nations Meet. A model U.N. meet is a meeting of members from various model United Nations from around the area to discuss their research and governments.

ORANGE SHIELD

Orange Shield is a student service program directed and run by upper class students. "It gives students the opportunities to get involved in the school and provides an alternative to activities such as government and clubs," said co-president Paul Boudreau. Services provided by this group include 130 upper-classmen tutoring underclassmen in study halls, helping bi-lingual students learn English and teaching nursery school children to swim. This program was revived this year after absence of about 25 years.

PHOENIX SOCIETY

The Phoenix Society held no meetings this year, sponsored no events, and generally was not in evidence at all. For this reason, we consider it a very successful year. Founded this year by president Craig Michelson, the club soon expanded (geometrically!) to large numbers. Our faculty advisor, Mr. Frederick Frelow, was a great help in all this. The departing seniors hope that those they leave behind will faithfully carry out this lack of tradition.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

The Psychology Club raised their money through bake sales and fairs for their annual party for the retarded and handicapped. They volunteered their services, visited McClean hospital, and raised money to donate to the World Hunger Society. They wanted experience to feed their interests in working in psychology and related fields.

RUSSIAN CLUB

The 1983-1984 school year was an exceptional year for the Russian Club. Our numerous meetings were always productive, (resolving all issues with 99.9% approval), and our zealous members showed special enthusiasm for achieving the Party Program as set forth by the central organs of the club.

Club activities: attending the Sampsopimus Convention, photography lessons in South Dakota, participating in the Level I Illusionary Triad, and constructing various metal objects.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB

The Science Fiction Club continued their quest to popularize Science Fiction in literary form this year. Led by the fortitude of President David Salter, Vice President Raines Cohen, and Treasurer Steven Liberace, they themselves went to movies and conventions, and saw lecturers Douglas Adams and Graham Chapman. They brought the movies Tommy and Dark Star to Newton North, starting their film program, which they hope will continue long after they're gone.

SKI CLUB

The Ski Club is a club that organizes ski trips for anyone at Newton North. The club boasted over 180 members this year, the largest club ever. They traveled to Loon Mountain, Sugarloaf mountain, Stow and over February vacation they traveled to Switzerland. Members stay at hotels or inns on trips. As well as skiing, members relax at night with games, television and socializing. "Being in the Ski Club gave me the opportunity to meet kids I never would have met before," said senior officer Pippa Hamann.

Craig Patrick, Pippa Hamann, Sally Cunning, Kevin Blake, Stuart Rist.

The Shakespearean Players practiced their artful digression this year with all the eccentricity and disorganization one would expect. They saw plays, produced plays, held their usual Renaissance Dinner, visited Nantucket, but mainly did nothing in particular in no sensible order. They specialized in selling round things with holes in the middle—they started with doughnuts and bagels, but hope to branch into Bundt cakes sometime in the future.

STUDENT-ORIENTATION SKILLS AIDES

The S.O.S. program was new to Newton North this year. Its purpose was to ease the transition from junior high to high school for the freshmen and sophomores. Junior and senior aides were assigned to homerooms for Thursday X-blocks. They taught activities designed to help the students become more familiar with Newton North and to develop more sophisticated study skills. The program is part of the Community Service Internship run by Social Studies teacher Dee Handspicker.

THE SPACE FILLERS CLUB

The Space Fillers Club founded on February 22, 1984 is a new club based on an old philosophy. Activities this year included anxiously awaiting deliveries from photographers, frantically sifting through piles of rejected photos and special late night sessions at members' houses. Prerequisites for membership are patience and a loud voice.

First row: Mack Truck, Mick Alobe, Moose Head. Second row: Ida No, Bud Weiser, Hot Dog, Joe Schmo, Suzy Q, Bull O'Nee.

S.T.O.P.

S.T.O.P.- the Student Teacher Organization for the Prevention of Nuclear War- served this year, as in past years, as a source of education on nuclear war and arms. They met once a week as a forum for those concerned with nuclear war and arms build-up. They organized February's Nuclear Education week, assembling speakers, films, and performers on nuclear subjects. S.T.O.P. is evidence that high school students care about and can affect the future.

SPEECH TEAM

The Speech Team competes in the Massachusetts Forensics League. Contrary to popular belief, the speech team does not congregate for the sole purpose of babbling (usually), but is dedicated to honing the art of public speaking. The members attend tournaments monthly where students competed in any of twelve categories. They performed cuttings from plays, poems, previously delivered speeches, and adult and children's literature. There were also competitors in informal debate, original material and extemporaneous spontaneous speaking. Many of the members were active in NNHS theatre, speech being an excellent discipline for prospective actors and actresses. Included in their vast repertory of intellectual activities, were numerous annoying fund-raisers and pre-planned periods of complete hysteria. Meetings were held during Thursday X-blocks in the humble abode of their advisor, Lynne, Montague.

TECHNICAL CREW

The technical crew ran the technical aspects of all theatrical productions at Newton North. They built sets, carried props, mopped floors and ran lights to add to the style and smoothness of the plays and musicals. The audio-visual branch of the technical crew took care of the equipment—running and running with it throughout the school.

TRANSITION

For the first half of the year, students in Transition met A and B block to discuss philosophical and social issues, and attend classes for the rest of the day. They left school mid-year to complete three modules of three to four weeks each. In the first, the social service module, students worked at places from the Boston Food Bank to the Jackson Homestead. The second was the urban modules, and participants worked in the city for experience. The last, the occupational module, gave students a chance to try out a job they might be interested in, in the future. For all modules, the students worked nobly albeit unpaid.

Students in Transition sold Christmas wreaths, T-shirts, sweat shirts, candy, pins, notebooks and earrings in their shop on Main Street. The money they raised helped pay for their wilderness trip to Maine and helped defray the cost of the large amounts of tea and coffee they consumed.

This was Transition's last year. The program, which was established as a service to students who wanted a taste of life after high school before high school ended, closed because a lack of enrollment and funds.

TIGER'S LOFT

The Tiger's Loft is a program which enables students interested in the culinary arts to attain experience in cooking and working in a restaurant atmosphere. Run by home economics teacher Bill O'Neil, the students work in their cafe "The Tiger's Loft", located on the third floor in Barry house. The students of the program also cooked and served the meal at the music department's Opera Night.

First row: Michael Delgizzi, Kim Holman, Stacy Landucci, Richie Mazzola, Jimmy Caruso, Kappy D'llaire, Rene White, John Daly, Gerard Murray, Mike Boivin, Jon Levens. CLASSICS

ART

The Art Department stretches through two houses on the fourth floor, gently edged in electric Beals green and glowing Barry yellow. Students run through busily washing brushes or tools or hands, or sit at the tables creating. The walls are papered with paintings and drawings, and pottery and sculpture line the shelves by the door.

This year the department, which offers classes from painting to ceramics to photography, added two new teachers—Olivia McCullough and Sandra Truant—and the new vision of freshmen students. The Visiting Artist Program continued, bringing a sense of reality to the possibility of a career in the visual arts. Four artists came with exhibitions of their life and works.

On Opera Night in January, students from the Studio Art class took on the roles of great artists—painters Picasso, Daumier and Cezanne were seen working and speaking with the visiting public.

The art scholarship fund held two of its sales which have been described by department head Daveda Movitz as "sometimes like a bazaar and sometimes like Filene's Basement." The sales give students a chance to walk away with an original work and supply funds for scholarships for several students continuing education in the visual arts.

But the classes in Art Department are not only for the career-minded. Said Ms. Movitz: "More and more, people realize that art is part of a full education."

CONCERT CHOIR

"Concert Choir is my greatest satisfaction," said director Ray Smith, of his "perfect community" of singers. The group is a melting pot of talents, temperament and experience with a common love of singing and performing.

Under Smith's direction, the concert choir has mastered peices usually considered too difficult for a high school level vocal group. They performed a repertoire which encompassed songs from "Steam Heat" to Hayden's "Paukmesse" on their exchange with Old Beth Page High School in Plainview New York. Their schedule of school and community concerts climaxed in their performance at Graduation.

The choir's accomplishment and success are due to co-operation.

"More sharing and hard work is done here than any other place in the school," said Smith. "The talented help and less talented but they also learn from them. It is a two way street."

VOCAL ENSEMBLE

The Vocal Ensemble is Newton North's freshman choral group. They have a rich, lively sound and perform difficult pieces with apparent ease.

Vocal Ensemble was created out of need to provide the new body of freshman singers with an opportunity for more specialized vocal training. The pace remained vigorous with extra attention set aside for the development of younger voices.

FAMILY SINGERS

"We are family"- a select group of vocalists, blending their voices into a full, rich sound, far-advanced for their ages. Talented seniors and juniors work together four times a week under the relentless direction of Raymond Smith. The Family Singers are dedicated to their voices, the music they perform, and each other. The quality of the sound they produce is their reward.

Family performed in many public concerts this year including Winterfest and Pops Night. In a unique Renaissance setting, the Family Singers performed scenes from operas spanning three centuries at Opera Night. They also sang in memorial for the soldiers killed in Lebanon at City Hall and for Mara Zalk, a 1983 Newton North graduate who died tragically during the year. The highlight of the school year was Family's trip to Munich, Germany with the orchestra where they performed their extensive repertoire including Rachmaninoff's Ave Maria and Helig, in the music capitol of the world. In June, they hosted students from the Ludwig gymnasium. The experience was invaluable.

SISTERS

The Sisters, a select group of junior and senior girls, made the stage come alive with song and choreographed dance. They radiated excitement in their modern numbers from Flashdance to Moondance. The new energy and polish was due in part to their director, Rick Travers, new to the Newton North Music Department. His flair for jazz was apparent in the Sisters' quality vocal sound. The Sisters' talent and dedication was apparent in every performance.

The Sisters performed in Jazz Night to a standing-room-only audience in the Little Theatre. The cabaret setting and authentic jazz band backed the soloist and group numbers making the successful night thoroughly enjoyable.

CONCERT BAND

The Newton North Concert Band is open to anyone in grades 9-12, who is interested in playing challenging instrumental music without the added pressure more serious groups face. This year's seventy-member band played moderately difficult jazz pieces and show music. Although the concert band in general had less experience than a more intensive group such as the wind ensemble, the group embraced all sorts of musicians, to most serious. The concert band's schedule included Harvest-fair, Winterfest, and Pops Night, as well as a tour of Toronto. Director Tom Leonard said: "Although there are different levels of proficiency, the nice thing is that each person is in the group they feel most comfortable with."

Members: Cathy Albanese, LeAnn Anderson, Jeannine Aucoin, John Bewick, Alexa Boorstein, Kim Bussy, Sherie Davis, Roland Davis, Ed Diver, John Fiske, Susan Florsdorf, Peter Ford, Matt Gardner, Alexander Glusman, Tammy Goedken, Ari Handel, Carolyn Hartog, Tiffany Heanue, Ellen Hinteregger, Daniel Kalafus, Lorelee Kapp, Erin Kiley, Ian King, Harry Kniznik, Simon Kopacz, William Korman, Ben Liebman, Amy Lloyd, Chris Malenfant, David Mann, Kim Melanson, Lawrence Mini, Donne Morrissey, Kathleen Mullen, Kristin Murphy, Andrea Passavant, Kenneth Quinlan, Maureen Quinlan, Melissa Quintiliani, Elizabeth Rosenfeld, Tom Rutledge, Aaron Sachs, Halil Sachun, Steven Sampson, Luisa Santilli, Christine Sharp, Nussy Shems, Elizabeth Shick, Sharon Silva, Julia Smith, Silvia Staulo, LeAnne Stewart, Jeff Swett, Sandra Tamburinni, Russel Ward, Ann Wexelblatt, Eric Wilson, Tony Scipione, Jenna Roberts.

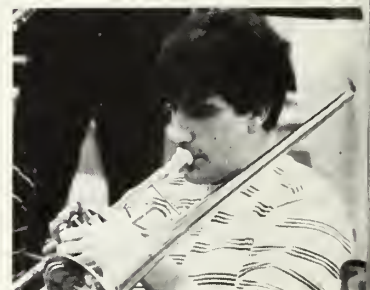

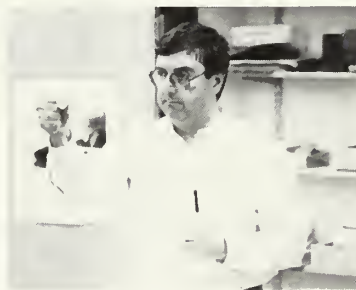

The Wind Ensemble, Newton North's "select" band, is composed of over forty juniors and seniors and "a few exceptionally advanced underclassmen that were ready to skip to a higher level," according to conductor Tom Leonard. This year, the wind ensemble boasted its routinely high showings in elite regional instrumental groups including the New England Conservatory's Youth Chamber Orchestra and the Massachusetts Youth Wind Ensemble.

Leonard started the year with music he categorized as "very difficult" and then progressed to the "most difficult wind literature available." The Wind Ensemble played everything from classics to jazz to show music. Leonard said he put a "much higher demand on members of the wind ensemble to assert themselves musically because the group is one of North's most sophisticated and serious."

The Wind Ensemble was in fact a class that met four times a week in preparation for the annual Harvestfest, Winterfest and Pops Night concerts, as well as tours of Toronto and upstate New York.

WIND ENSEMBLE

JAZZ ENSEMBLES

Newton North is fortunate to have the ability to support two full jazz ensembles. One met weekly on Tuesdays and was made up, by audition, of the most talented junior and senior jazz musicians at North. The other ensemble met during thursday X blocks and was open to any interested instrumentalist from grades 9 through 12. The latter was more casual whereas the former played more difficult pieces. Both bands play jazz from the 30's to the present in a regular schedule of band performances as well as in the newly founded "Jazz Night". This concert, which was in conjunction with the Sisters, was called "a success" by director Tom Leonard. The setting, the mood and the music worked together to make the start of an event which hopefully will become annual, fun for everyone.

ORCHESTRA

According to its conductor, Eric Benjamin, the 1983-1984 orchestra was "almost definitely the best," in his eight years at Newton North. It not only was the largest orchestral group in recent years, but also carried depth in all sections. "There were more than a couple of very capable players. There were some outstanding individuals and some other above average players." On top of that, the group "worked well together. There's a nice feeling in rehearsal."

Benjamin's main problem, in fact was being "afraid of picking music that is too easy. I try to pick music that's demanding and challenging." This year the orchestra played everything from Baroque Bach, to the modern Martino, exposing the members to a wide variety of music.

Highlights of the year included a tour of Munich, Germany and a performance of Verdi's "big noisy romantic" piece, Giovanni D'Arco, which met with "huge response" at both Harvestfair and Opera Night. "I think they're challenged by interesting music," said Benjamin. "The group's a lot of fun this year. It really relates well with itself."

TECH-VOC

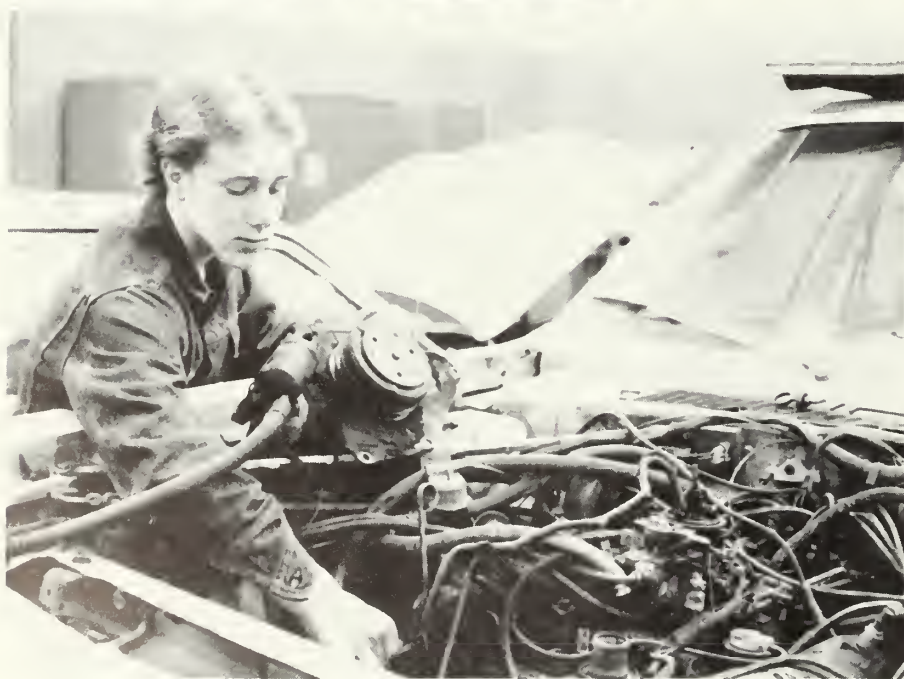

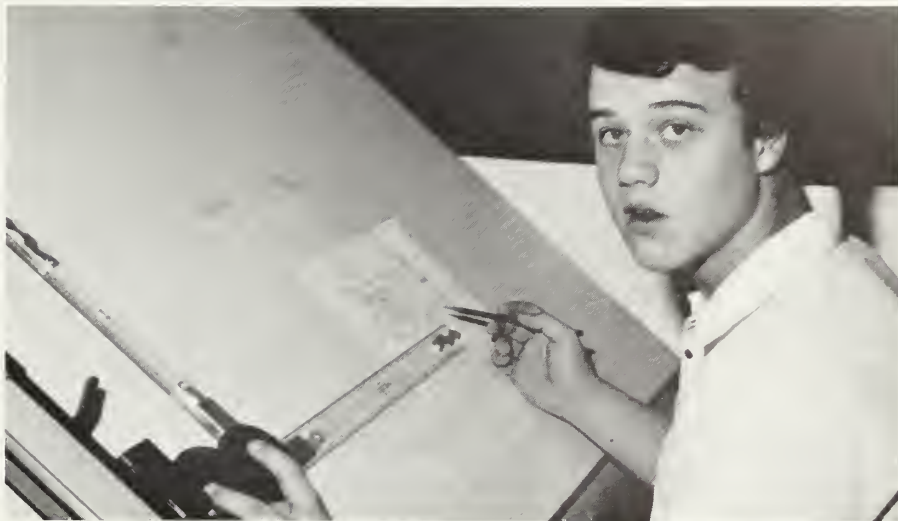

The Technical-Vocational Department winds through the first floor, trail-blazed by murals and large lettering. The tech-voc program completely prepares a student to begin his or her career directly after high school. The department, which also offers career counseling, has a one hundred percent job-placement rate.

A student involved in the tech-voc program can major in Réfrigeration, Automotives, Auto Shop, Electronics, Graphic Arts, Machine Shop, Metal Fabrication and Carpentry. A major demands one thousand hours of shop time spread over two years. Tech-voc students divide their time between shop and academic courses.

In addition to vocational majors, the department offers alternative programs such as Visual Communication and Fundamental Engineering. These electives provide enough knowledge and skills for entry-level employment.

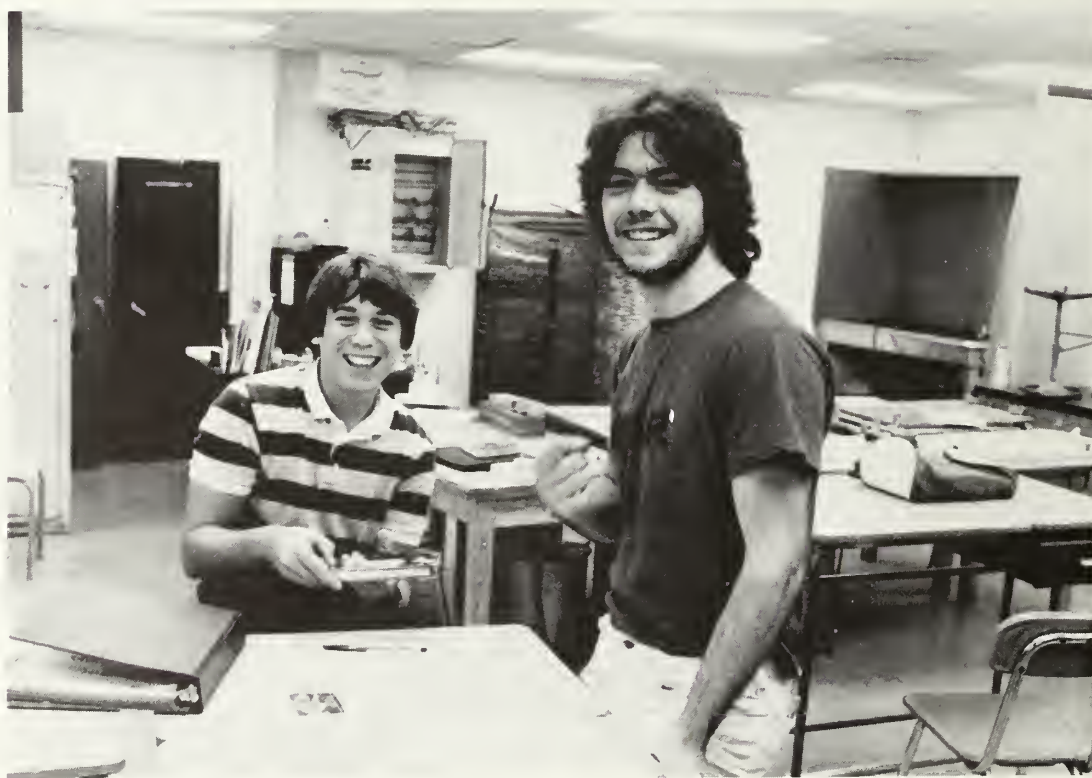

Most work is hands-on in the shop and few lectures are given. The tech-voc department, has an advisory committee including the heads of major companies which are related to the department.

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

The boys' cross country team was recovering from the loss of their life blood - the powerful, experienced seniors of last year. In distance running, athletes need the development of a post-high-school body; runners who were physically too young two years ago are just beginning to reach their prime now.

Their 3-2 record, however, is by no means disgraceful or disheartening. The team had great enthusiasm and most importantly, put in a great deal of effort. What they lacked in age and power, they more than made up for in morale.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

The Girls' Cross Country Team finished the season with a 3-3 season.

The members developed greatly throughout the year, and by the end of the season, had come back to defeat all but one of the teams they had previously lost to.

The "abnormally small" team depended heavily on the underclassmen, who according to coach Peter Martin, did a "super job." Senior Laura Locke, in her first year as a cross country runner had an especially outstanding year, consistently helping the younger runners.

In recent years, field hockey at Newton North has become a forgotten sport. In rival cities Weston and Wayland, field hockey is as important as soccer is at North; in Newton, many varsity members are first and second-season players who start as late as junior or senior year. This year's field hockey team, however, hustled on the field, striving for goals and excitement instead of notoriety.

The 1983 field hockey team enjoyed its best season in recent years, finishing with a 3-9-3 record in the competitive Dual County League.

"We've gained the respect of other teams," said coach Celeste Myers. "We showed that we could hold our own." The members of the team, according to Myers "had a strong sense of self. "They believed in their ability to do well and were not intimidated by the opposition."

The determination to do well was most intense in graduating players. Seniors Ellen Breslau, Laura Gonnerman, Sherry Little, Debbie Laredo, Miriam Tuchman and co-captains Diana Selig and Rachel Heckscher. Myers stressed the team's pride in Dual County League All-Star honorable mention, senior Cathy Wietz.

With promising players including leading scorer Stephanie Bower, the defensemen Tara Feeney, Celia Savitz, Julie Subrin and Sally Weltman, the team finished in good spirits which Myers hopes will carry over into next year.

FOOTBALL

The football team finished its season at 5-5, a perfect record according to the philosophy of former principal Richard Mechem. Coach Norman Walker, who respects Mechem highly, agrees that with this even record the team learned equally from its wins and losses.

Walker credits the team with steady improvement and great courage. The players, said Walker, never shied away from the challenges.

"Everyone carried and developed the team," said Walker, "All the players had strong personalities, morals, and sense of humor."

The young and inexperienced team was however, home to six Suburban League All-Stars, including senior co-captains Kevin Blake and Jimmy Walker.

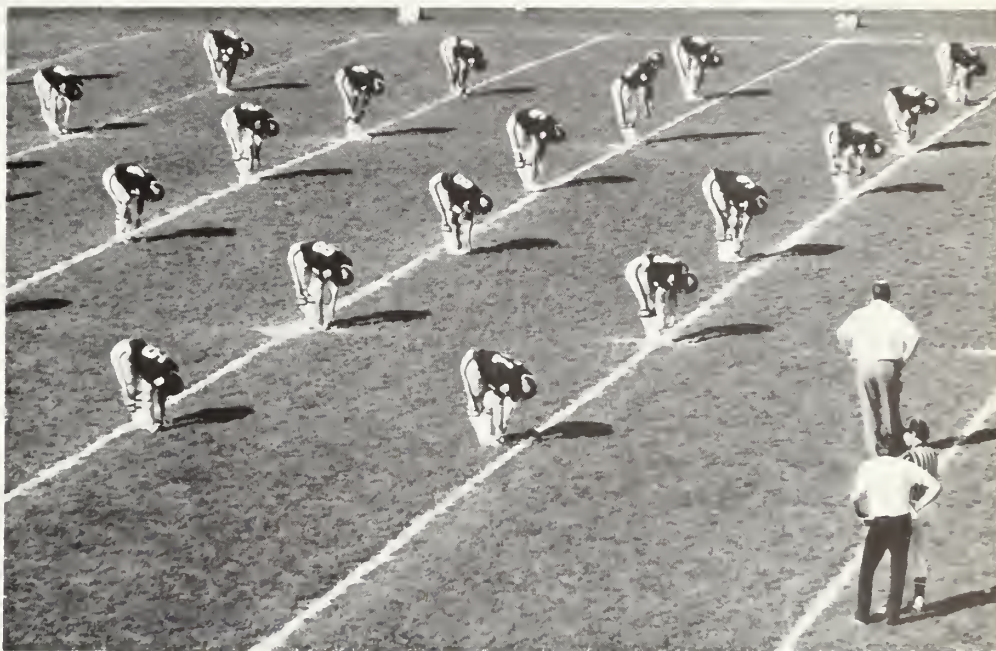

The defeat at the hands of rival Waltham was particularly heartbreaking because, according to Walker, Newton outplayed their opponents but lost the game. This was, however, over-shadowed by the triumphant Thanksgiving Day game. During that, the last game of the season, Newton out-hustled and defeated Brookline.

This season marked the end of an era—the Walker-coached Newton North football team.

Said Walker: "In the twenty-five years I've coached football in Newton, the one thing I've always tried to accomplish was to get the kids to work and never quit.

"The biggest thing I preached was to hold your head up high and keep a positive attitude. If you win, be humble and thankful the game went your way. And if you lose, maintain your pride and try to get the next one.

"I've never veered from this objective."

GOLF

Golf as a competitive high-school sport is often overshadowed by more traditional games such as football and basketball, but the Newton North Golf Team, Suburban League champs, deserves recognition, hoots, hollers, and maybe even pom-pom girls.

This year, the Suburban League switched from medal-play which is scored based on the total number of strokes taken in a nine-hole match, to match-play (scored hole-by-hole). The match method is more competitive for the League; before it went into effect, according to coach Jack Neville, the Newton North Team had little trouble winning most of their matches.

The Golf Team finished its season with an impressive, nearly perfect 11-1 record.

BOYS' SOCCER

by Coach Roger Brown

Twenty-four boys participated on the 1983 Boys' Varsity Soccer Team which finished the season with eleven wins, three losses and three ties. All three losses ended with scores of 1-0.

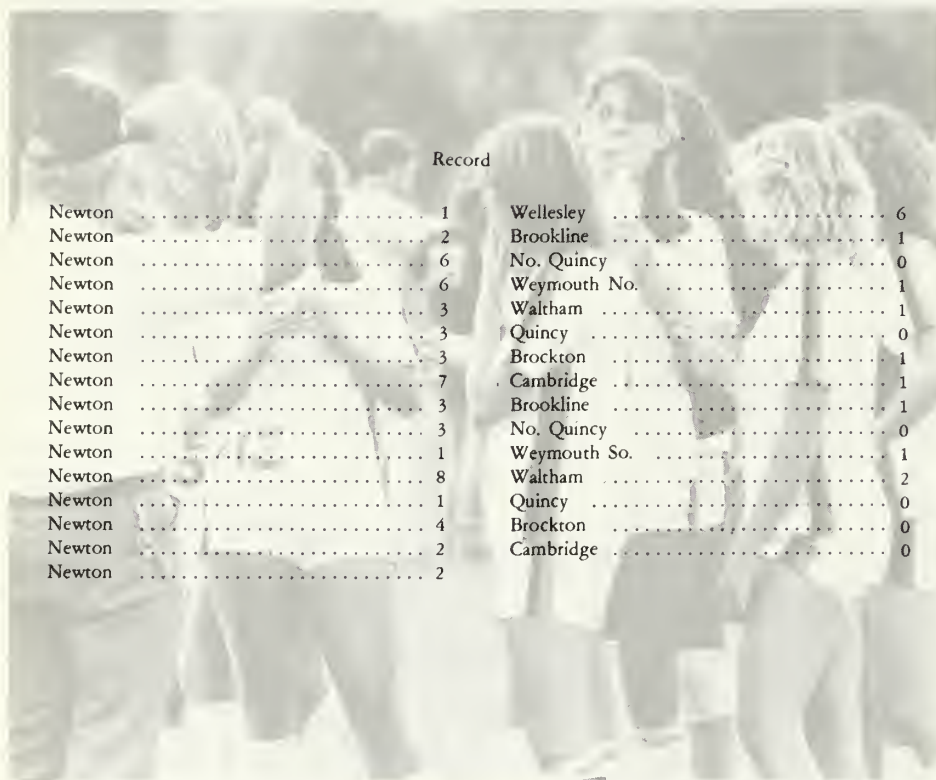

The Tigers had to settle for second place in the Suburban League when the last regular game of the season against Cambridge ended in a scoreless tie, giving the Cantabs the league championship by one point. The team did qualify for the state tournament where they defeated Brighton 3-2 in the first round. In the quarter finals top-rated Needham scored in the final minutes of the game to defeat an inspired Tiger squad 1-0.

Highlights of the regular season included two exciting away games with first place implications involved. On October 11 Newton dominated Cambridge and came away with a 3-1 win. The Tigers travelled to rival Waltham's field October 26 and battled to a 1-1 tie in an intense, emotional contest.

The Tigers were characterised by a "total-team" concept, with all players contributing to the successful season. Co-captains Mike Dunbar and Chris Pachus were excellent leaders on and off the field as Newton North displayed an aggressive defense that held its opponents to 11 goals during the entire season, while the offense scored 36.

Individual honors went to league all-stars Chris Pachus, Mike Dunbar, Fernando Migliassi and Steve Kasha.

GIRLS' SOCCER

"If you work hard, you get the rewards."

The girls' soccer team, coached by the philosophy of Barry Howland, worked hard and was rewarded with an impressive 13-3 record.

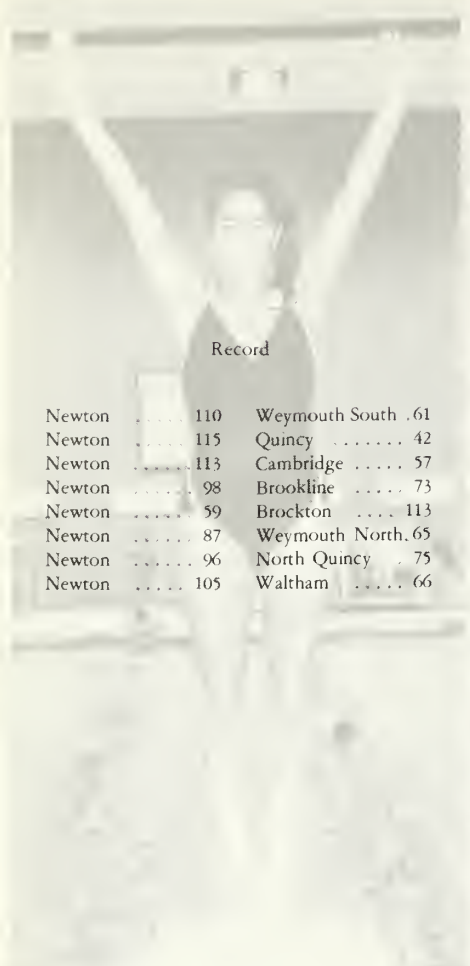

Howland, whom everyone calls "Fuzzy", said that this year's team had more youth but also more skill than in years past. He also said that he treated all the players as equals.

"The kids have given me 110% all the time," Fuzzy said.

Howland's hard work— he has an incredible 100-4-4 record as a coach in the Suburban League and a 136-20-6 overall— was rewarded with the title of one of the Coaches of the Year by the Boston Globe. His success as a coach is due largely to his enthusiasm.

"I enjoy it as much as the kids," Howland's team has won the league title 7 out of 8 years, and Howland is on the Newton Girls' Soccer Board of Directors and the Eastern Mass Girls' Coaches Association. Of the award, "Fuzzy" said:

"I think it's an awful great honor."

GIRLS' SWIMMING

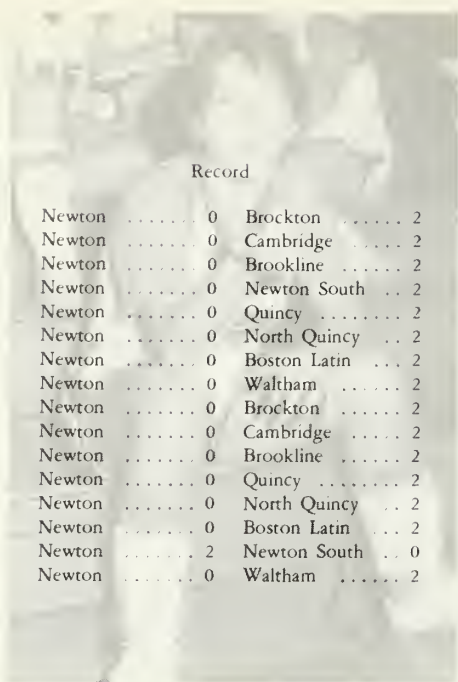

The 1984 girls' swim team, powered by some of its greatest talent in years, splashed to a 7-1 record and second place in the Suburban League.

Coach Colleen White had every event filled with several swimmers—an unusual pleasure for a coach. There were five league all-stars on this year's 55 member team. Only five of the members were seniors and White expects the rest—10/11 of the team—to return to swim in '84 and '85. A staggering 32 varsity letters were handed out at the annual fall sports banquet.

Overall, because of the talent and serious devotion of the swimmers, the squad had one of its most successful seasons in recent memories.

VOLLEYBALL

This year's volleyball team, which, according to coach Jay Cradle, had more talent and potential than any other she has ever coached, played a spirited season despite a lack of varsity experience.

The squad had only three players returning with any extensive varsity experience, and one of them, Midge Connolly, was sidelined the entire season with an injury. The team finished with a 1-15 season against a league of stronger, more seasoned players.

The team depended heavily on underclassmen, and all the players contributed equally to the strengths of the team. Cradle expects that with experience comes success, and, in two years, she predicts: "They'll be a powerhouse."

FALL CHEERLEADERS

Cheerleading, when done right, looks effortless, unrestrained and untiring, but is really based on hard work, talent and thought.

The Newton North fall cheerleading squad completely writes and choreographs its own cheers and performs them at half-time shows and on the sidelines during football games. They are chosen for their poise, gymnastic ability and coordination by a board of teachers and coaches.

The cheerleaders inspire and motivate players to victory or raise their spirits in defeat. They always have syncopated words of cheer when they are most needed, and, thanks to their hard work and talent, know exactly how to say them.

MARCHING BAND

The marching band is far from classic. It is in fact the fun musical group at Newton North — the one group which perhaps does not concentrate quite as hard at mastering music and producing beautiful, harmonious passages, but instead works whole-heartedly on generating spirit and enthusiasm with a "go-for-it" philosophy.

This year's band, led by drill masters Mark Lane, Sherry Little, John Mullen and Lisa Prosser played their repertoire of 40's, 50's and pop music at all of the football games and at the Memorial Day Parade.

Many of the members of the band are not otherwise involved with the music department. They play purely for the fun of it, without the pressures of a more classical ensemble.

As Lane said: "It's a lot of fun. You don't have to be musical—You just go and wail on your instruments."

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The Boys' Basketball Team finished at 8-9 and in fourth place in the Suburban League. The top three teams in the League entered the state tournament. North's biggest rivals were Waltham and Brookline. They fought hard against both but lost by small margins.

Led by captains Dino Maye and Chris Striedter, the team was united and performed extremely well. "The team had patience. When we took our time and moved the ball around, we won," said senior Roger Nusbaum.

The team did not have one dominating player that stood above the rest and as a result each game had its own star who simply played well in the clutch. Juniors Greg Lee and Greg Weltz were noted as steady performers, and senior Noel Daniel, and juniors Colin Ryan and Andy Lockwood as excellent team players. Nusbaum was an invaluable catalyst coming off the bench.

Having pulled together beautifully, the enthusiasm and morale was high and the Tigers couldn't have played harder. Having finished on top, coach Jerry Phillips is pleased with this year's team and considered it a "successful season."

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

"Newton probably has the best starting lineup in the league with players like Kathy McGuire who is simply an excellent scorer," according to the coach of one of the Tigers' rivals.

The Newton North Girls' Basketball Team, while finishing with a 2-10 record, still had a good season in one of the (if not the) toughest league in the state. Despite the losses, many of which were tough, the team consistently improved and "never gave up for a second."

Some of the problems faced by the team were caused by a lack of veteran players with experience in pressure situations. Others were due to their competition: the Suburban League has produced a State Finalist in each of the last ten years.

The strongest players, said coach Michael Foye, were captain Kathy McGuire, junior Jackie Kinsella and sophomore Carol Ventura.

BOYS' GYMNASTICS

With only three members of last year's team returning, the Boy's Gymnastics Team did extremely well this season, finishing third in the South League with a 6-5 record. Coach David Simkins described the young team as a "dedicated group who works very well together."

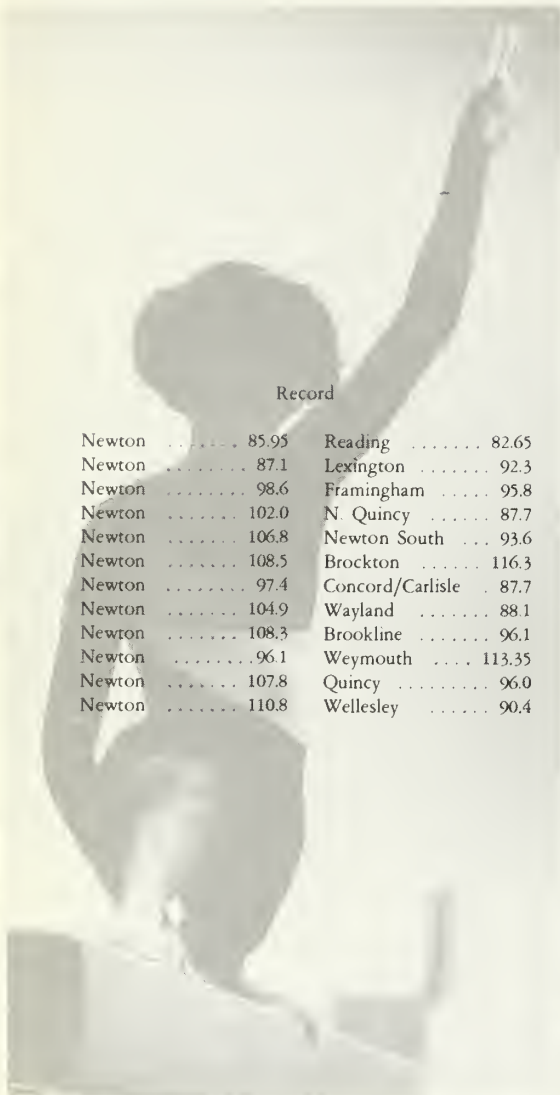

North's toughest competition were Braintree and Wellesley in two crucial meets. They defeated Braintree for the first time in thirteen years but eventually lost to Wellesley.

Coach Simkins claims the Tigers could have won at least three of the meets they lost had Captain Ken Haller not injured himself in the third meet, benching him for the rest of the season.

However, Haller remained dedicated, going to all of the meets and helping the younger members of the team. Sophomore John Redmon stood out in all events, especially the high bar. Juniors Joel Gorn, Mike MacDougall and Rick Engermann also carried the team.

The spirit of this year's team was excellent according to the coach and captain. Both cited Senior Evan Dryer and sophomore Ian Louis as excellent performers and team leaders. They also mentioned specially assistant coach Brian Cove who helped the team unity.

After this successful season, the Boy's Gymnastics Team was proud to send the first team in four years to the state meet.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS

The first four weeks of the girls gymnastics season were marked by several near misses and a certain lack of assurance, but the first two meets after Christmas vacation served as a turning point.

From then on," said coach Dick Delay, "the season was all downhill. We started reaching the goals we outlined during our first practice: a winning season, scoring 100 points or more at every meet, an injury free season, each girl participating in more than one event, fostering and maintaining a positive attitude, respecting ourselves, having fun and enjoyment, and keeping the team concept."

Special highlights included a 108.8 state average at the finish of the season. Senior Karni Segal became a trainer under Tom Giusti.

"Since injuries and taping are special problems in gymnastics, her contribution in taking on all training responsibilities was greatly valued," said Delay.

Mary Reynolds, said Delay, was "a great gymnast and vaulter—a joy to coach. Two freshmen, Niki Cradle and Tammy Goedken were quality all around gymnasts—giving and accomplishing much.

Senior Debbie Rosenberg was outstanding in the floor exercise all year, according to Delay. Two beam gymnasts—Debbie Katz and Jennifer Katz—were also outstanding this year.

HOCKEY

By Coach Don Crowley

The 1984 Newton North Varsity Hockey Team provided plenty of excitement from throughout the entire season. After suffering an opening-game loss to arch-rival Waltham, with the deciding goal coming with only 43 seconds to play, the Tigers went on to register one of the most successful seasons in Newton hockey history. The season ended with a heartbreaking 3-2 overtime loss to Watertown in the State Tourney. Between these two losses, the team played 20 games without a loss, finishing with a 18-2-2 record, the best in Newton North hockey history. In addition, senior John Butterworth broke the single-season scoring record with a 58-point performance.

The senior class was well represented on the team. Steve McKay, two-time league All-Star, was an excellent goaltender, while Captain Tom Ryan, League MVP, led the way all season. Forwards Chris Pachus, Tom Grady, Jon Brownstein and Bob Connerney were outstanding performers throughout the campaign. Defensemen Paul Boudreau, Rich Peach and Dana Fraktman were major contributors to the team's success.

Although the team received strong play from outstanding underclass players Tim Marchand, Paul Healey, Bob White and Jim Burke, the senior group is to be commended for leading Newton North to two Suburban League Titles in two years, along with tournament wins in each season.

All future Tiger hockey teams will be measured against this year's aggregation.

The Newton North Ski Teams had mixed results this year. The downhill team, due to a key injury and the inconsistent schedule of races, was never able to get organized. The boys' team, with senior captain Chip Guiney injured before the season, finished a disappointing last for the season, although freshman Zafar Khan and seniors Craig Patrick and Peter Colbert were consistent skiers. The girls' downhill team, led by senior captain Carolyn Corbato, skied from a third-place finish in the first race, to a first-place finish in the third.

The Cross Country Ski Team finished overall a close second to rival Wellesley. Girls' senior captain Pauline Abernathy and sophomore Penny Patrick were the top finishers for their team, while Hans Gunderson and Craig Patrick led the boys' team. The girls' team skiers all finished in the top 25 in the first race, starting the season with a first-place win. Only two races could be run, however, and the lack of practice time hurt the Tigers' overall performance.

Despite the lack of snow and the other hardships faced by this year's ski teams, they still managed to ski well. The Tigers are still considered one of the better teams, one of the teams to beat, in the Suburban League.

BOYS' SWIMMING

Although no records were broken, the Boys' Swim Team still had an excellent season, finishing 6-2, third in the Suburban League.

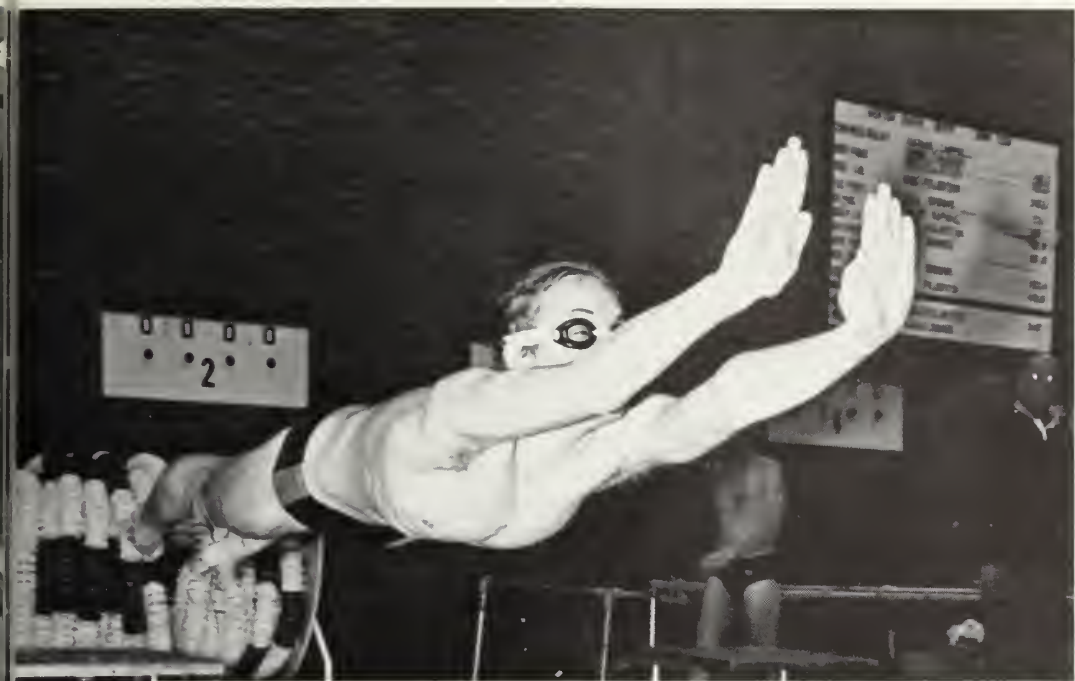

"Our real strength this year came from numbers. Many of our meets were won because we were able to fill all the slots in a race and pick up a lot of second, third and fourth places," said coach Chris Jones.

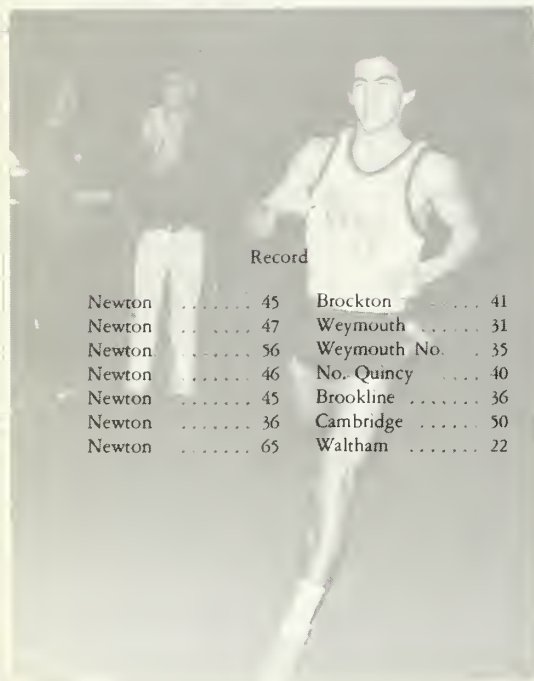

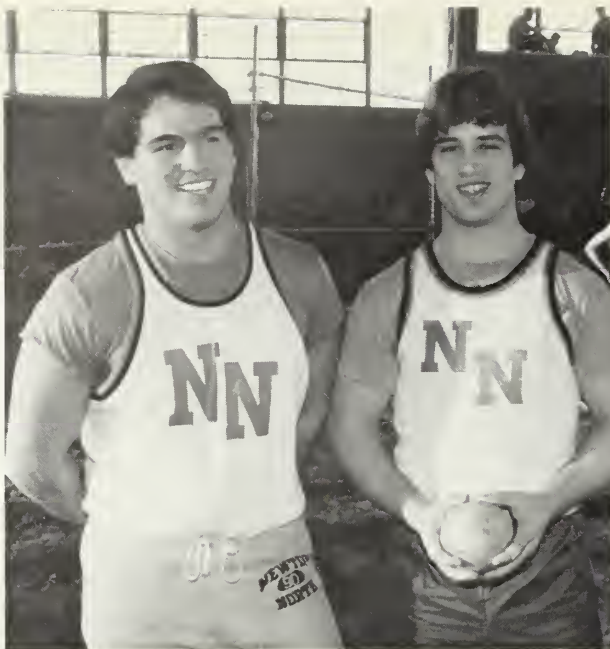

"North also had a number of strong individual performers including captains Peter MacDonald and Sam Heelspelink and sophomore Tim Troiano in the sprints.

Part of the Tigers' problem was in diving where senior Craig Turner was injured for part of the season. This left the team with only one or two divers where other schools had three.

Jones also praised the captains for their great leadership. "It was an enthusiastic, close-knit team that never gave up, even against the league powerhouses."

The Tigers will be losing a core team of ten seniors which will hurt the team's depth," said Jones. However, he still is optimistically saying, "We can only get better."

BOYS' INDOOR TRACK

The Newton North Boys' Track Team had an excellent season finishing second in the Suburban League and fifth in the Class A division State meet.

The Tigers raced past their first six opponents including Brookline, but eventually lost to Cambridge, the league champions.

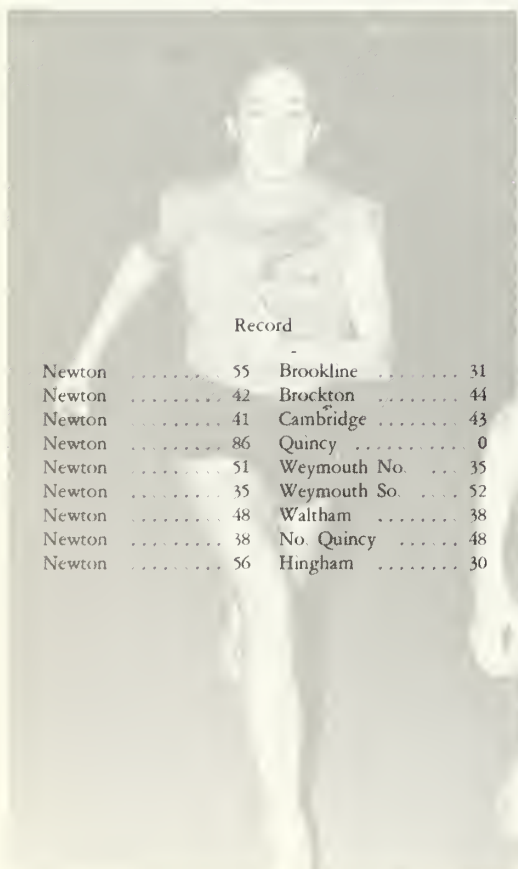

"Seniors were the real strength of the team," said coach Marc Lech. "Steve Kasha had an outstanding season and co-captain Sean Feeney picked up many vital points. Nick Leary also had good times in the 2-mile."

Most of the team's strength came in the sprints and the hurdles with junior Dave Vento and senior co-captain Matt Milner. The seniors also carried the team spiritually, Lech said. "Their enthusiasm at practices and their determination in the meets really picked the team up."

With a lot of underclassmen, including sophomores Ken Quinlan and Peter Burke, Lech is optimistic about the outdoor season.

The relay team of junior David Vento, seniors Finn Yonkers, Matt Milner and Ed Tafe, set a school record for the 4x4 mile relay by three seconds. Matt Milner also finished fourth in 300 in the state meet.

GIRLS' INDOOR TRACK

"It all came down to the two mile race against Waltham," said Girls' Track coach Peter Martin. "We had to take both first and second places to win the meet and end with a winning record." Senior Jennifer Slack came in first and sophomore Kerry O'Leary finished second.

Numbers were low. "It was hard to tell how we would do early in the season," Martin said. "There was not too much optimism as we didn't know then that the underclassmen would be so talented."

According to Martin there were too many meets in the season- a majority of them too early-on for the team, especially the sophomores and freshmen, to be prepared. "We lost two early meets by two points each and the added disruption of the season by snowdays and Christmas vacation made the coaches have to train too fast."

Standouts, Martin said, were co-captin Val Holmes, who finished unbeaten in her specialty, the 600; and senior Jennifer Slack, who sacrificed her usual one mile racing to help the team by running the two mile all season.

Loaded with underclassmen, the Tigers featured three outstanding young girls and many others on their way. Freshman Rachel Davis made an enormous difference as the league-leading high-jumper, and sophomores Tara Feeney and Kerry O'Leary excelled in the long distances.

As training became steady, the girls made constant progress, winning their last three meets and doing well in the state relays.

The youth and promise of the team needed and received great coaching from Mary Jane Williams, he said. "She was a terrific assistant coach and the kids responded to her tremendously."

WRESTLING

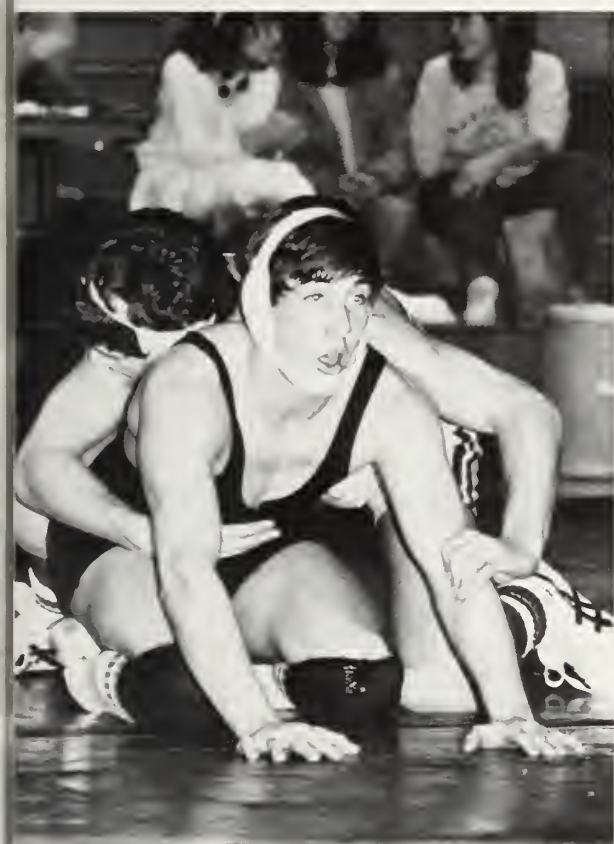

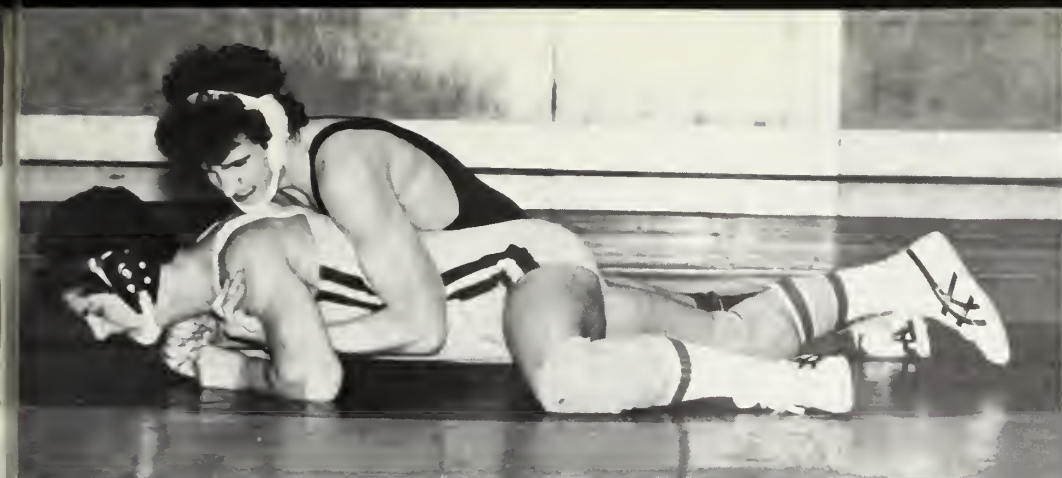

In a rebuilding season the Newton North matmen finished with a 5-8 record and finished fifth in the Suburban League behind powerhouses Brockton, Waltham, North Quincy and Quincy. The team physically and mentally matured as the season progressed. Led by talented senior co-captains Mark Fabian, who wrestled at the 108 pound weight class, and Jimmy Walker at 170, the tigers were a high-spirited team and reached their peak in the last match of the year, when they drubbed Newton South 44-14.

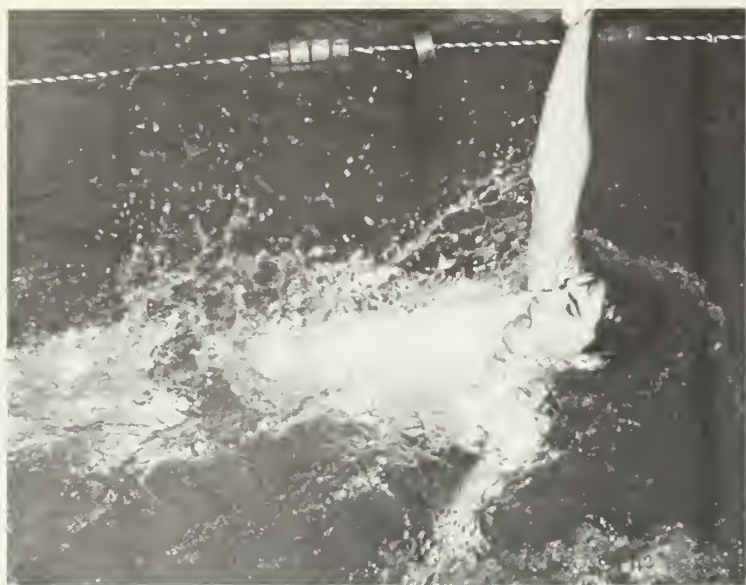

Fabian and Walker both won in the sectional tournament, and were both ranked second in the state tournament. Senior Foster Lin was impressive at 121 pounds, finishing third in the sectionals, and Dean Russo was pleasantly surprising coming in sixth, weighing 101.

The team was a young one-only three of the seniors on the team had prior varsity experience. However, the first year players quickly improved as the year went on. Senior Danny White, who wrestled at 134, pinned his opponent in twelve seconds in the last match of the year. Senior Mark Hoffman, the heavyweight, competed well and courageously until he was injured by Brockton's mammoth 6'7, 355 lb. star.

The future looks bright for the North matmen since nineteen grapplers were underclassmen and will return. Among them sophomore, Scott Lanciloti, a fiery competitor at 147 lbs, and strong freshman Brian Claflin, at 157 this year, will be forces to be reckoned with in the next few years.

Head coach Norman Walker, who started the wrestling programs at Wayland, Newton South and North, returned to his old job of coaching and was inducted into the Massachusetts Wrestling Hall of Fame.

GOD

God, Woody Allen's one-act farce, raised serious philosophical questions during its run October 20, 21, 22: Does God exist? Does man exist? What is the true nature of human character? Can a nice girl from Wellesley ever truly enjoy sex?

The play, directed by senior Chris Cahill, is the story of Hepatitis, a writer, and Diabetes, an actor, searching for the ideal end to their play. The time frame and setting, in the loosest sense of the terms, is ancient Greece, but the plot wanders and borrows from time to time. Hepatitis and Diabetes, played by seniors Ed Rubin and Dick Derry, ask the powers above them for help. They are answered by Doris Levine (Mass Bay Community College; gym major, philosophy minor) who rises from the audience and descends to the stage to meet their highly metaphysical questions and somewhat more physical propositions.

As the action builds, reality breaks down. Blanche DuBois, seeking refuge from her own play and looking for a nice young god to come and sweep her off her feet wanders into the theater. Bursitis, an inventor played by junior Stephen Moss offers to rent his Deus Ex Machina which will fly Zeus in at the end of the play to save the earth and the plot line. Hepatitis, fascinated by the possibilities, quickly rewrites the end of the play. The show goes on, with Diabetes and Doris as the leads of this play-within-a-play.

The actors and actresses were simply hysterical; their jokes were perfectly timed and delivered. The audience, with cast members sitting, walking, and talking among them, loved it.

God, while perhaps not reverent, was certainly inspirational in one way or another.

YEOMAN OF THE GUARD

The best singing in a school musical in years gilded the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Yeoman of the Guard, December 16, 17, and 18 in the Lasker Auditorium. Cast members acted deftly around plot twists and sang beautifully the complicated musical passages throughout the operetta.

The setting is 17th century London, just beyond the tower of London. Colonel Fairfax (Augustine Lawrence) is locked within under sentence of death, accused of dealings with the devil. Sergeant Meryll (Christopher Perry), whose life Fairfax once saved, plots his friend's escape with the help of his daughter Phoebe (Jennifer Teig). In the meantime, another of Fairfax's friends persuades Elsie Maynard (Pam Mosher), a jester's sweetheart, to marry Fairfax blindfolded, thus preventing his scoundrel relatives from inheriting his fortune at his execution. Fairfax is then released through the wiles of Sgt. Meryll who disguises the man as his son, Leonard.

Elsie sees Fairfax, disguised as Leonard, for the first time and the two fall in love, but she thinks she cannot wed since she is married to another. Fairfax realizes Elsie is his wife, but cannot reveal himself yet since he is still a "criminal."

Meanwhile, Wilfred Shadbolt, the jailer's assistant (Christopher Fraize) uncovers Phoebe's part in Fairfax's escape and blackmails her into marriage. Her father is likewise trapped into marriage by Dame Carruthers. Fairfax is enonerated and reveals himself to Elsie as not only her love, but her husband. The two are happily united. The jester, Jack Point (Peter Goldfinger) dies of a broken heart.

THE FANTASTICKS

The Fantasticks, an offbeat, abstractly classic musical was performed in the Little Theater with minimal sets, a small band and an abundance of confetti on February 9, 10 and 11.

The play, which was directed by senior Margi White and produced by senior Elizabeth McCracken, is the story of two lovers, two fathers and a wall. The lovers, Matt (Steve Zohn) and Luisa (Sarah Idelson), fall in love over the wall that separates their fathers' gardens. Their fathers hate each other and don't want the two to meet - so the lovers think. In actuality the fathers are great friends and would like nothing better than to have their children wed, but believe that no matter what they want their offspring to do they should tell them the opposite. When the fathers, Hucklebee (Matt Malloy) and Bellomy (Peter Goldfinger), are convinced that their children are sufficiently in love, they decide they need a plausible way to end their "feud". They hire the professional abductor El Gallo (Christopher Perry) and two out-of-work actors (Bruce Macdonald and Duffy Plunkett) to stage an elaborate rape: the actors and El Gallo will attempt to abduct Luisa, but will allow Matt to overcome and defeat them. The rape goes according to plan, and the families unite in what seems to be a story-book perfect ending. But Love attained is not Love perfected, and disillusioned by the lack of Romance in a settled life, Matt leaves to face the world. He is beaten, drugged, and set aflame, and all-in-all doesn't have much fun. He returns to his father's house where he finds Luisa, her heart broken by the suave El Gallo. They realize their silliness in wanting anything or anybody but each other and are happily reunited. All through the play, The Mutes, on-stage stage managers, (Lisa Winn and Jenny Trueblood), move elegantly and smoothly supplying prop and acting as props.

ROCCO

Sponsored by the Barry House Council, Rocco's Rock 'n' Roll Revue celebrated its tenth and final year, performing on March 10, 16, and 17. The cast played to packed houses every night, filling the Lasker Auditorium with the same electricity and energy that had drawn a decade of enthusiastic crowds.

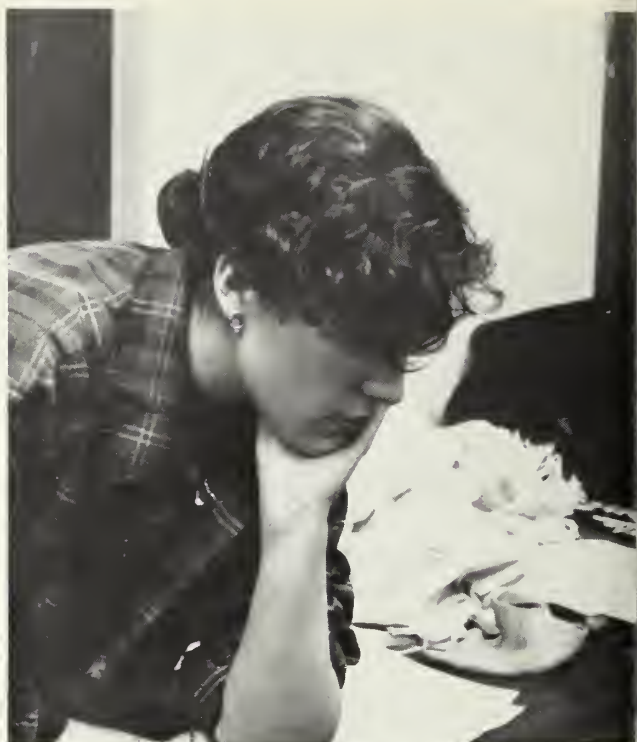

Rocco has not only been a tradition of 50's Rock 'n Roll, but also the strongest unifying force at Newton North. The performers came from every walk of life and all cultural and financial backgrounds; barriers of color and physical handicap just didn't exist. Something special happened during the annual 2-1/2 hour revues that never seems to happen elsewhere, something more than music — a bond of friendship and acceptance.

This year's cast included the Vitalics, the Shimmerelles, the Ayvees and the Pink Cadillac Chorale. Returning for his fifth year was Matt Leahy, who led this year's Celestials: Gus Lawrence, Matt Milner, Craig Turner and Gareth White. "Rocco" MacDougall, assisted by his leather-clad cohort, Jo-Ellen Hillyer, emitted a display of energy that swept through the audience in waves.

The money raised this year went to the the Barry House Scholarship, which is awarded annually to any eligible senior.

Finally, an extra special thanks is due to Hess, who has been with the show since its premier. Without Hess, his bass and his equipment, not to mention his time and unselfish dedication to the show, Rocco would not exist, never mind existing as the highlight in the high school careers of many North students, past and present. Hess has been the foundation of it all. Thanks again.

THE PHOENIX SOCIETY

The Phoenix Society was formed this year and immediately went through a painful identity crisis. When plans to buy the Boston Celtics and to send all the members on vacation to Bermuda fell through due to a mindbogglingly huge lack of funds, this fragile, new-born club was faced with its first challenge.

Our first (and only) meeting, which took place in the library, for the club picture, didn't address this problem. (Besides, we didn't even know we had so many members!)

Finally, President Michelson arrived at the scintillating plan of buying two pages in the yearbook. To do this, however, the first law of the club - not to bother doing anything - had to be broken. The Donut Hole was taken over once a week and money was made.

The result is the shamelessly egotistic display you see before you. We like it.

Travelling down Main Street can be a terrifying experience. One can feel overwhelmed by the elbows, backs, shoulders (and if one is short, stomachs) which swarm by. A student newly graduated from the relative quiet of junior high school can feel insignificant next to the crowds and fear for his safety and individuality.

But somehow at North, people can still communicate, still make friends, still strike out on their own. Instead of being a pool of conformity, we are a wave of individuality. There's a fine balance of separateness and camaraderie that is very rare.

Getting through high school is no simple feat. The Class of 1984 has completed 13 years of classes and assignments (more or less) and there were times, perhaps, when school seemed impossible. But we made it. And not commonly, but with a certain flair, a certain finesse. With more than class.
